Design of Gaming Simulation for Urban Management and Urban Planning

2007 International ISAGA Summer School in Gaming & Simulation

This year's Summer School will give participants the opportunity to learn about different gaming simulation methods and to learn how to design Urban Simulation Games.

Participants will be allocated to one of the six project teams, taking into account their professional profiles. Each design team will be coached by a teacher/expert in gaming/simulation, who is supported by an urban planner.

Following the general introduction, we will continue with a survey of the city of Venice.

During the morning and afternoon sessions, the participants will engage in workshops, whenever appropriate, supported by lectures.

As the results of all project teams (prototype games) will be presented in plenary sessions, every participant will have the opportunity to have a look at all the designed games.
